

Recognizing your emotions is part of staying mentally and emotionally healthy.

Using substances like cannabis (marijuana) or vaping nicotine can impact both in not-so great ways.

these substances can worsen feelings of anxiety and depression!

A SENSORY CHECK IN

Let's slow down. If you are able to, sit or stand in any position that feels comfortable. Focus on where your body makes contact with the ground. Adjust your position until you are comfortable in your stillness.

Breathe. What do you notice from this place of contact? What are your emotions? Are they comfortable, uncomfortable or neutral?

ASKING IS AWESOME 😊

The fact is: we all need help!
DON'T do it alone! You're NOT a burden on anyone!
 People who care are there to GUIDE you!

Treat yourself like a plant!

Taking care of your wellbeing is an act of self-care. It can help you reduce stress, cope with difficult feelings, better avoid burnout, and find positivity. Here are 4 ways you can practice self-care by treating yourself like a plant!

1. Get some sunlight.
2. Drink plenty of water.
3. Get some fresh air and activity.
4. Get some nutrients and minerals.

Good, bad, big, or small—don't go through it alone. These free resources are available anytime you need someone to listen without judgment.
